The Parables of Jesus

Led by Lois and Jay Miller

Jesus was a great teacher. One of his favorite ways of teaching seems to be through parables—stories with spiritual meanings. Using our Bibles as our main text, we will explore what Jesus might be saying to us today through the parables. Each parable is an invitation to change and growth.

Gary Inrig says, "To read parables properly is to see yourself in a new way. But the parables are more than mirrors. They are windows into the heart and mind of God. Beyond revealing what you are, they help you know who God is."

Genesis

Led by Jim Schompert and Brandon Anderson

In the beginning God.....

Join us for an in-depth study into the book of Genesis. Through His word, God has revealed to us His love and plan for mankind from the very beginning of His creation. This class will focus on the first 11 chapters of Genesis, as we look at each verse in detail and discuss some of the questions and issues that modern science is still unable to explain. The answers to many of the questions our culture struggles with today can be found right in Genesis: Where did we come from? Is the earth really only thousands and not millions of years old? Are we all really part of the same race? Is there actual scientific evidence for a world-wide flood? Knowing the answer to these and other questions can help us to defend our faith as we share the Gospel of Christ to a lost world.

Continuing the "Conversation"

Led by Ken Bergey and Norman Hoy

Sometimes the pastor's message stirs thoughts and responses in the people who listen. The Elders see the morning message as an important part of Community's spiritual life. If you'd like to "Continue the Conversation," this Sunday school class will be led by representatives of the E-Team who would like to discuss with you the morning message and its implications for your life.
